Sir Ernest Doesn't Dig That Rock 'n' Roll

Canadian rock 'n' roll artists may as well not bother applying to the Canada Council for financial assistance, because the council doesn't dig that kind of jazz.

That, in effect, is a translated version of an opinion given by Canada's leading conductor, Sir Ernest MacMillan.

The famed conductor and member of the federal council for the arts in here to lead the Victoria Symphony Orchestra in a program at Duncan on Friday and concerts at the Royal Theatre in Victoria at 3 p.m. Sunday and 8.30 p.m. Monday.

Asked whether the council would give a grant to an upcoming rock 'n' roll hero, Sir Ernest said: "I don't think so."

"I don't know what the council would do, but I wouldn't favor it myself," he said. "It's supposed to be for cultural activities."

Commenting on often-heard western claims that eastern Canada is favored by these federal grants, Sir Ernest said: "You should hear what they say about it in the east."

"B.C. got a very large share last year," he said. "People seem to think we have hundreds of millions to divide up every year.

"People have no idea of the complexity of problems and the number of applications we have to deal with, and there will be accusations of favoritism wherever you are," Sir Ernest said.

Victoria Symphony Orchestra conductor Hans Gruber left yesterday to conduct the Edmonton orchestra in a single concert.

Uninsured Loss Leaves Family Destitute

Help Me Rebuild Mill, Father Asks

A Sooke Road father of four is seeking help to rebuild his small sawmill which was destroyed by fire Sunday.

The mill owner, Rod St. Pierre, 2614 Sooke Road, said he hoped to be able to rebuild within three or four weeks "with a loan from the bank, or a stake from a friend."

He said loss of his uninsured Langford Sawmill on Happy Valley Road, which he had operated since 1954, left him without immediate means to support his wife and four young children.

He is hoping to get some kind of part-time work to tide him over until he gets the mill operating again. Neighbors have come to his aid with loans of food.

Fire at the isolated mill was actually spotted by friends, the owner said, but they failed to turn in an alarm or inform him because they thought he was burning slabwood "as I usually do on the weekends."

Langford fire department said no report on the fire, which destroyed between $3,000 and $4,000 worth of lumber and machinery, was turned in to them.

When it was finally reported to the mill owner around noon Monday that flames had been spotted at the mill the day before, he rushed to the scene to find his property a blackened ruin.

He blamed the fire on flames started in hot sawdust by high winds.

Smith Tells House:

Arena Bill 'An Insult' To Victoria

Victoria city council is trying to legalize "an insult" to the people of Victoria, Donald Smith (SC, Victoria) charged in the legislature last night.

He was referring to the bill presented by George Gregory Lib., Victoria) which will allow residents of Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay to sit on the Victoria Civic Arena Commission if they are Victoria ratepayers.

FIVE ARE FIT

Mr. Smith termed the bill a "direct insult to the mental capabilities of Victoria taxpayers." He said there were 18,000 ratepayers in Victoria and surely five of them are fit to serve on the arena commission.

He pointed out the city council didn't insult the financial capabilities of Victoria ratepayers when it asked them to pay for the arena.

"There are no better people in this province than the people who live in Victoria," he said.

OFFER DECLINED

Mr. Gregory said Mr. Smith was being generous to civic voters "who declined his offer of service at the civic election in December, 1957." Mr. Smith ran for mayor and it is speculated he will seek that position this year.

The bill was given second reading in the House over the lone objection of Mr. Smith.

There are five members on the arena commission and the new bill provides for the city engineer and city manager to be non-voting, ex-officio members.

TWO ALDERMEN

Now all members must be residents of Victoria. The new bill extends the membership privileges to no more than two city council members (no members of city council are now allowed on the commission) and to residents of Greater Victoria who are Victoria ratepayers.

Women Urge Meetings At Night

Victoria Council of Women suggested in a letter to City Hall yesterday that council consider holding its meetings in the evening to enable more people to attend and stimulate interest in civic affairs.

"We've tried it before. It's not a success," said Ald. Arthur Dowell.

Socred Secrecy Slapped

Victoria MLA George Gregory yesterday suggested in the legislature to Premier Bennett that next election the government should "campaign on a platform of secrecy."

He was commenting on defeat by the government of a motion made by Archie Gibbs (Lib, Oak Bay) that the minister of finance (Premier Bennett) table in the House financial statements relating to the PGE Railway, sinking fund of provincial debt, sinking funds of Toll Highways and Bridge Authority, sinking funds of public schools debt and a dozen more government agency fiscal reports.

Cheque Checker Checked

Police are seeking a man who put a number of cheques through a cheque-writing machine after barging into an investment dealer's office yesterday, claiming he represented the "head office" of the cheque machine company.

A. Donald Head, office manager for Hugh McKay & Co., 1220 Broad, said the B.C. agent, Frank L. Bott & Co. at Vancouver later told the Victoria firm there was no "head-office" representative in the area.

The man was given access to the machine after claiming he was "checking the machines in the area."

An employee of the investment firm took the licence number of his car after seeing him mark up some figures and then stamp them on cheques taken from his pocket.

247 Pints Blood Tallied in Drive

Victorians donated at least 150 pints of much needed Group O blood yesterday along with 97 pints of other groups during the first day of a two-day blood drive at Red Cross House. The clinic will continue today from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m. and 7 to 9.30 p.m. at headquarters at 1046 Fort.

Sooke's Target

Royal Treat For Royalty

Proud Sooke residents are determined to have Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip partake of the "royal treat" of All-Sooke Day July 18—especially the salmon barbecue.

A bid for a royal visit has already been made to this summer's tour officials, but Sooke is seeking to strengthen its case by having the city of Victoria support the bid.

Mrs. Kay Hancock, chairman of the tourist and publicity bureau of the Sooke-Jordan River Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday that a letter requesting support has already been forwarded to Victoria city council.

"It would be a nice change for the royal couple," she said, "mainly because All-Sooke Day is so unique an affair.

"And it would be in keeping with the informal nature of the tour . . . there's no brass out here so there wouldn't be any of the usual reception lines and curtsying."

Mrs. Hancock said the chamber and Sooke Community Association (backers of All-Sooke Day) were aware the Queen was leaving this area the afternoon of July 18.

"But the 17th is listed as a day of rest for the Queen and the Duke," she said. "And we would be willing to put on some of the special things that day—like log birling and the salmon barbecue.

"Sooke certainly rates a royal visit. We've always been passed up during previous visits," she added.

Parks Body Ruin Feared

Mayor Percy Scurrah yesterday saw a possibility of collapse of the Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee because of the attitude of Saanich council.

The council decided this week to seek a commitment from city council that city-owned parks in Saanich will always be used as parks, before approving the municipality's one-third share of the committee's $12,000 budget.

"A PITY"

"It will be a pity if the Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee collapses after so many years of successful co-operation and doing so much good work," Mayor Scurrah said. "In my opinion, the city certainly wouldn't feel like putting up the entire budget of the committee."

The committee looks after Elk and Beaver Lakes, Mount Douglas and Gorge Parks.

Coun. Leslie Passmore told Saanich council he had seen subdivision plans drawn up for Gorge Park.

"There's been a subdivision plan for years," said the mayor. "It's at least eight years old. As far as I know there has been no thought of doing anything. The matter has never been broached—not even mentioned."

CCF Proposal

House Blocks Move To Control Phones

The provincial legislature yesterday voted down a CCF motion asking that the provincial government make application to the federal government to have the B.C. Telephone Co. revert to provincial jurisdiction.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said the idea was to have the rates and services of the telephone company controlled on behalf of th people of B.C. by the Public Utilities Commission.

"INADEQUATE JOB"

"The telephone company is not doing an adequate job and is charging too much for an inadequate job," Mr. Strachan said.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the federal Board of Transport Commissioners had a large and informed staff better able to handle the job than the provincial Public Utilities Commission. He said local telephone company managements are responsive to suggestions for improved service within the province.

Dowell to Greet Tokyo Citizens

Ald. Arthur Dowell will extend the greetings of the citizens of Victoria to the citizens of Tokyo next Wednesday.

He will do so at a Tokyo rugby game between Japanese and B.C. representative teams, and will also present the mayor of Tokyo with a B.C. centennial dollar mounted in plastic.

Alderman and Mrs. Dowell will leave Sunday on a tour which will take them to Tokyo, Hong Kong, Ceylon, India and back to Japan, returning to Victoria in May.

Bias Against Non-Whites Laid to B.C. Pulp Firms

British Columbia's pulp and paper industry discriminates against non-white workers, John Squire (CCF, Alberni) suggested in the legislature yesterday.

During discussion of the estimates for the department of labor, Mr. Squires made a formal request to Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to investigate the matter.

"I say no more, Mr. Minister," he said, "but to my knowledge everybody in the pulp and paper industry has a white skin."

Replying, Mr. Wicks said that to his knowledge there was no discrimination, but promised an investigation if Mr. Squire could supply further information.

Mr. Squire told The Daily Colonist later that he expects to again bring the matter before Mr. Wicks today.

Ferber to Speak At Power Probe

B.C. Comptroller-General Charles Ferber is expected to testify today when the Shrum Royal Commission probing B.C. Power Commission operations reopens at the Empress Hotel.

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Loran Jordon used his veto power at council meeting to delay sale of property which he regarded as too good for commercial or light industrial use.

His order to have the matter tabled for one week drew a protest from Ald. Norman Odgers, chairman of the finance committee, which had recommended the subdivision of two blocks bounded by Maitland Street, Fifth Avenue, Wallace Street and Seventh Avenue in view of increasing demands for commercial and industrial property.

The finance committee had decided on the action after investigating the request of W. R. Biggs for various sites on which to build a warehouse.

It was recommended that the area selected by the committee be divided into four equal portions, one of which has already been allocated to the B.C. Telephone Co.
